ROASTED TO DEATH.

Special Dispatch to the Chicago Tribune. CINCINNATI, Oct. 20.—A fire resulting in the loss of five lives occurred about 11 o'clock today in the shoddy-factory of Benjamin J. Baker, corner of Second and Broadway.

The fire caught from a stove in the rear of the building, and before the engines could be brought to the spot the whole building, owing to the inflammable character of its contents, was in flames.

Twenty girls and women, under the supervision of Mary Foren, the forewoman of the sorting department, were at work in the sorting and storage rooms on the third floor.

These women knew nothing of the presence of the fire until one of them saw smoke coming through the cracks in the floor. She at once called to the others to get out, and the women at this time were in the storage room, only eight then being in the sorting room.

The forewoman ran to the door between the two rooms and told them the building was on fire, and to hurry out. Two of the eight immediately followed her, but the other six, anxious to save their clothes, stopped to take off their working dresses and put on their nightgowns.

The consequence was that when they turned to go down the staircase in the storage room they found Mrs. Rachel Doggett, 61 East Third street, 55 years old, body burned to a crisp; widow Mrs. Margaret Welch, 60 years old, Seventh and North streets, no relatives known; upper portion of body burned to a crisp.

Mrs. Mary Syron, 49 years old, 43 Yeastman street, and without relatives known; upper portion of body except face burned.

Mrs. Catherine Jackson, Front and Broadway, 55 years old, widow, supporting blind daughter.

Miss or Mrs. Kerwin, 40 years, 170 Locke street, and her mother, who was known to her family, or whether married or single.

THE WARNING. When the fire broke out there were twenty-eight women at work in the third story with the forewoman. Twenty girls were in one room with the forewoman, and eight women were in the adjoining room.

The forewoman gave the alarm to the girls in her room, and then rushed down and down the stairs in safety. She then went to the room where the eight women were and gave the alarm also.

Two of them followed her down the stairs. The other six delayed, it is supposed, to change their clothing, until the fire had reached the staircase.

There is no question that the loss of life was due wholly to carelessness or the fright of the victims themselves. There was ample time, if they had not stopped for their clothing, or become confused, to escape.

Mrs. Eliza Barrett, who was persuaded to jump from a third-story window, escaped with a broken ankle.

Mrs. Lyon was at the window at the time, and was apparently about to follow Mrs. Barrett.

THE PLACES OF DEATH. In that direction, then, turning toward the drying-room, all was flames. Their only chance was the window. Only two of the six reached that point alive. Two, afterward identified as Mrs. Rachel Doggett and Mrs. Catherine Jackson, were killed in the ruins. The exact number of the killed cannot at this time be given, as some more bodies are said to be in the debris.

The following bodies have been recovered, some of them in a fearfully mangled condition, and some in a more or less recognizable form. Within a few minutes the Department and hundreds of people hastened to the distillery of Cox & Fairbanks, on South Water street.

It was soon ascertained that from some unaccountable reason three of the large boilers had burst, and that the water was working in the ruins. The exact number of the killed cannot at this time be given, as some more bodies are said to be in the debris.

Mrs. Barrett came, she turned and ran back into the flames.

The loss is about $25,000. The building was not burned down. The floor where the women perished was not much injured.

The fire was caused by a stove in the rear of the building, and before the engines could be brought to the spot the whole building, owing to the inflammable character of its contents, was in flames.

UNLUCKY EXCURSIONISTS. RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 20.—To-day a freight train ran into a crowded excursion train coming to the State fair. The engines and cars were wrecked. Three men were killed, and fourteen wounded, some seriously. They were mostly on the platform.

DROWNED. DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 20.—A Rogers City special to the Detroit Post and Tribune reports the drowning of Capt. Joseph Sawyer, Superintendent of the Ninth District Life Service, and Keeper George Feaban.

FIRE RECORD. CHICAGO. The alarm from Box 348 at 3:40 yesterday afternoon was given by a fire in the frame barn in the rear of No. 229 and 321 West Randolph street, the former owned and occupied by John Ring, and the latter owned by J. C. Bushnell and occupied by J. C. Whitcomb. The fire is supposed to have been caused by small boys playing with matches. There was a party of three or four about the place, and two of the number say that Eddie Blood, a mischievous youngster of 10 years, maliciously set fire to the barn. He stoutly denies the charge. As he has been a source of great annoyance to both citizens and the police, and as his parents have no control over him, the police are trying to have him sent to some reformatory or asylum.

The alarm from Box 323 at 3:45 yesterday afternoon was caused by the explosion of a small gasoline lamp in the basement of the two-story frame building at No. 140 West Polk street. The building is owned by Jacob Malloy, and is occupied by Reuben Levy. Damage $1,000.

AT SAN FRANCISCO. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 20.—The Mission street fire yesterday destroyed Auten's hay barn, Miller's restaurant, Mitchell's ship chandlery, Gray's saloon, West's lodging-house, Greedman & Danielson's shoe shop, Heston's grocery, Paulsen's shirtwaist establishment, Heston's hardware yard, and part of Mastie's lumber yard.

The Folson street fire burned the building formerly occupied by the Pacific Mail Company and the Oregon Steamship Company. It is believed that the cause of the fire was a defective chimney. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

AT PIQUA, O. PIQUA, O., Oct. 20.—At 1 o'clock this morning the Piqua Hotel, owned by Leonard & Daniels, was totally destroyed by fire. The fire began in the fourth story, and in two hours the fine structure was ruined, with its valuable contents. Thousands of bushels of seed and 600 barrels of oil were in the building when destroyed. The loss is estimated at $150,000 to $200,000, with insurance from $75,000 to $100,000, divided among twenty-seven companies, among which are the London, Liverpool & Globe, British American, Cooper, London & Lancashire, Dayton, United Firemen, Kenton, and Aurora. Spontaneous combustion and friction of the machinery are the theories advanced to explain the origin of the fire.

AT PEORIA. PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 20.—The cooper-shop of John Zimmerman, near the Woolen Distillery, burned down this evening. The building was owned by Zimmerman, and insured in the First Fire-Insurance Company for $500. About 500 barrels belonging to the Woolens were stored in an adjoining building and were also burned. They were also insured in full. Zimmerman had no insurance on his own property. The cooper, some thirty of whom lost all their tools. The total damage is about $3,000. It is feared that the distillery adjoining, which employed fifty hands, will be destroyed by the fire.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1880—TWELVE PAGES.

ed. The object of it is plain. It is intended to act as a buffer, and destroy the effect of Bayard's Cooper institute speech, which openly and boldly committed not only himself, but the Democratic candidate for the Presidency and the party itself, as far as he could, to the very policy which the Sentinel's young man, after being taken into the confidence of the Supreme Court, condemns.

THE DEMOCRATIC LETTER-WRITER.
The author of "Order No. 66" has become so impressed with his ability as a letter-writer that he cannot refrain from plunging into print. His half-dozen letters on the tariff, not counting those which have been intercepted and withheld by the National Committee, have, in his estimation, added immensely to his laurels. The Democratic Committee, however, has become satisfied that in letter-writing the military ought to be subordinate to the civil authority, and has therefore interposed. The New York Sun has the following notice to Gen. Hancock on the matter of his epistolary productions. Here is what it has to say to him:

Much as our candidate exerts in writing letters, we most definitely advise him not to write any more.
But if he does write any, let him inclose them with a $10 bill in a transparent envelope, and let the Republican subscribers to the Post of this city will be sure to break them open, steal the money, and destroy the letter; so the contents will never see the light of day. Hancock need write nothing more on the tariff.

Every one knows he is in favor of a tariff which will yield the utmost protection to American industry, and especially to the Democratic Party.
But if Hancock should devote himself to writing his inaugural, and even if it is never delivered, the preparation of it will be a salutary labor. If he must write on a tariff, let him exclaim loudly that it is a tariff which will yield the utmost protection to American industry, and especially to the Democratic Party.

THE DANGERS OF A CHANGE.
The North American Review for November contains a paper on "the political situation from a financial standpoint," by E. M. David, David Davis, and some twenty others of the most conspicuous merchants, and persons otherwise eminent in financial matters. Though the article is addressed to the people of New York, it is not of less interest to the people of all the States, for all alike are concerned in taxation, and in the maintenance of the credit of the United States.

Twenty years ago, when the debt of the United States was only $1.91 per capita, the Government borrowed $100,000,000 at 12 per cent interest. Last year, though the debt of the United States was $4.45 per capita, the Government borrowed $100,000,000 at 12 per cent interest. Last year, though the debt of the United States was $4.45 per capita, the Government borrowed $100,000,000 at 12 per cent interest.

Who own the National bonds, and who are to be affected by the new one? The men of great wealth have long since ceased to be the exclusive holders of the public debt. In that debt is now invested the spare money, the hard-earned savings, the little accumulations, and the sole dependence in the future of millions of persons and families. Here are some of the enumerations of the persons who own the bonds: There are 50,000 persons holding registered 4 per cent bonds, and at least 150,000 persons hold coupon bonds. Each of these holders represents at an average the surplus money of at least one family.

THE National banks own and hold $400,000,000 of Government bonds; these are the property of 30,000 stockholders. There are 30,000 stockholders who own $400,000,000 of Government bonds; these are the property of 30,000 stockholders. There are 30,000 stockholders who own $400,000,000 of Government bonds; these are the property of 30,000 stockholders.

SEVENTH BAYARD ON GREENBACKS.
An enterprising young Democrat, who composes Washington letters for the Indianapolis Sentinel, has divided the particulars of a horrible case of a man who had been a member of the House of Representatives. The man was a member of the House of Representatives. The man was a member of the House of Representatives. The man was a member of the House of Representatives.

THE effects of a change or serious disturbance in the National finances would be more sweepingly disastrous to business than even to the persons and families directly interested in the bonds. It would reflect directly on the credit of the country, and would be a disaster of the first magnitude. It would be a disaster of the first magnitude. It would be a disaster of the first magnitude.

THE disastrous effects of a serious decline would be far more extensive. By the corporate form of business, the credit of the country would be a shackle of the assets of these corporations, and the credit of the country would be a shackle of the assets of these corporations. The credit of the country would be a shackle of the assets of these corporations. The credit of the country would be a shackle of the assets of these corporations.

THE probabilities weigh somewhat heavily against the veracity of the Sentinel's Bohemian. Time and place have been wanting for the formation of the conspiracy which has been widely scattered, and being true to the veracity of the Sentinel's Bohemian. Time and place have been wanting for the formation of the conspiracy which has been widely scattered, and being true to the veracity of the Sentinel's Bohemian.

THE man in the country understands better than Gen. Garfield the fact that the Republican party is being carried into power on a tide of popular passion. No man should be better satisfied to let the tide run its course, or less anxious to take the tide by the front, or less anxious to take the tide by the front, or less anxious to take the tide by the front.
